Our solution is used by a global accounting firm throughout Ireland, and is part of the suite of ONESOURCE products used by the majority of the FTSE 100 companies in the UK.

The software enables the efficient and timely calculation of tax computations and estimates, producing the Revenue CT1 return form, together with comprehensive tax logic schedules to support the return.

Focused on straightforward, logical and easy to use functionality, our solution is a user-friendly tool for completing all corporation tax computations. The product is supported with a comprehensive help section, and a helpline manned by IT and tax professionals.

iXBRL - what is different?

An iXBRL document is a representation of the accounts or the computation in web page format which can be viewed on-screen. Behind the web page, key data has been identified and "tagged" so that it can automatically be processed by a computer. The shift to e-filing will allow ROS to automate manual review processes as well as enable performance benchmarking and data-mining analysis of information that you have submitted.

COMPUTATIONAL FEATURES

- Analysis schedules to support all income and expenditure items.
- Capital allowances schedules, supporting various types of assets, and taking account of various reliefs available to calculate allowances.
- Foreign income, income from a foreign trade or foreign branch, and foreign interest taxed as Case I.
- Property schedules dealing with both ring-fenced and non ring-fenced rental properties.
- Capital disposal schedules, calculating the gain or loss on various different types of assets and applying relief and loss offset as appropriate.
- Research and Development Expenditure and Capital Credit schedules which calculates credits to be offset and excess credits to be carried forward for future years.
- Detailed calculations, such as medical premiums paid and motor expense restriction.
