Big four accountant starts up new firm with the right tax and research technology in place.

“Checkpoint UK is a great product, which I have found to be extremely reliable. I particularly like the weekly news updates. I wouldn’t hesitate in recommending this solution to other practices looking for comprehensive research and guidance in all areas of tax.”

Emily Collins Personal Tax Ltd. is located in Stockport and was established in 2016. Owner Emily Collins previously worked for one of the Big Four accounting firms in all areas of personal taxation. After 20 successful years, she decided it was time to start her own practice. Emily decided to focus her practice on personal tax services for high net worth individuals. In addition to preparing tax returns for individuals and trusts, her practice provides advice on income and capital gains tax planning, business structuring, inheritance tax and succession planning. ATT and CTA-qualified, Emily chose Digita Personal Tax from Thomson Reuters to automate the tax return process. She was also looking for a solution that would provide accurate tax research and news online; she found this in Thomson Reuters Checkpoint® UK.

Checkpoint UK provides up-to-date tax information and research covering UK tax legislation with primary source material, analysis and more, meeting the everyday needs of the busy tax professional with details of rules, regulations and tax issues specifically affecting companies in the UK. As a result, practitioners get research done faster with more accuracy and have greater confidence in their recommendations and return preparation.

Emily conveys that, “In my previous employment I was always provided with up-to-date legislation, and this was something I was keen to maintain within my own practice.” “Having the ability to look at topics within the tax books online and find up-to-date legislation is a great asset”, she continues. “It’s difficult to quantify how much time this saves me, but during busier times I find myself using Checkpoint on a daily basis.”

Emily concludes by saying “Checkpoint UK is a great product, which I have found to be extremely reliable. I particularly like the weekly news updates.”
